RHYMES / SONGS

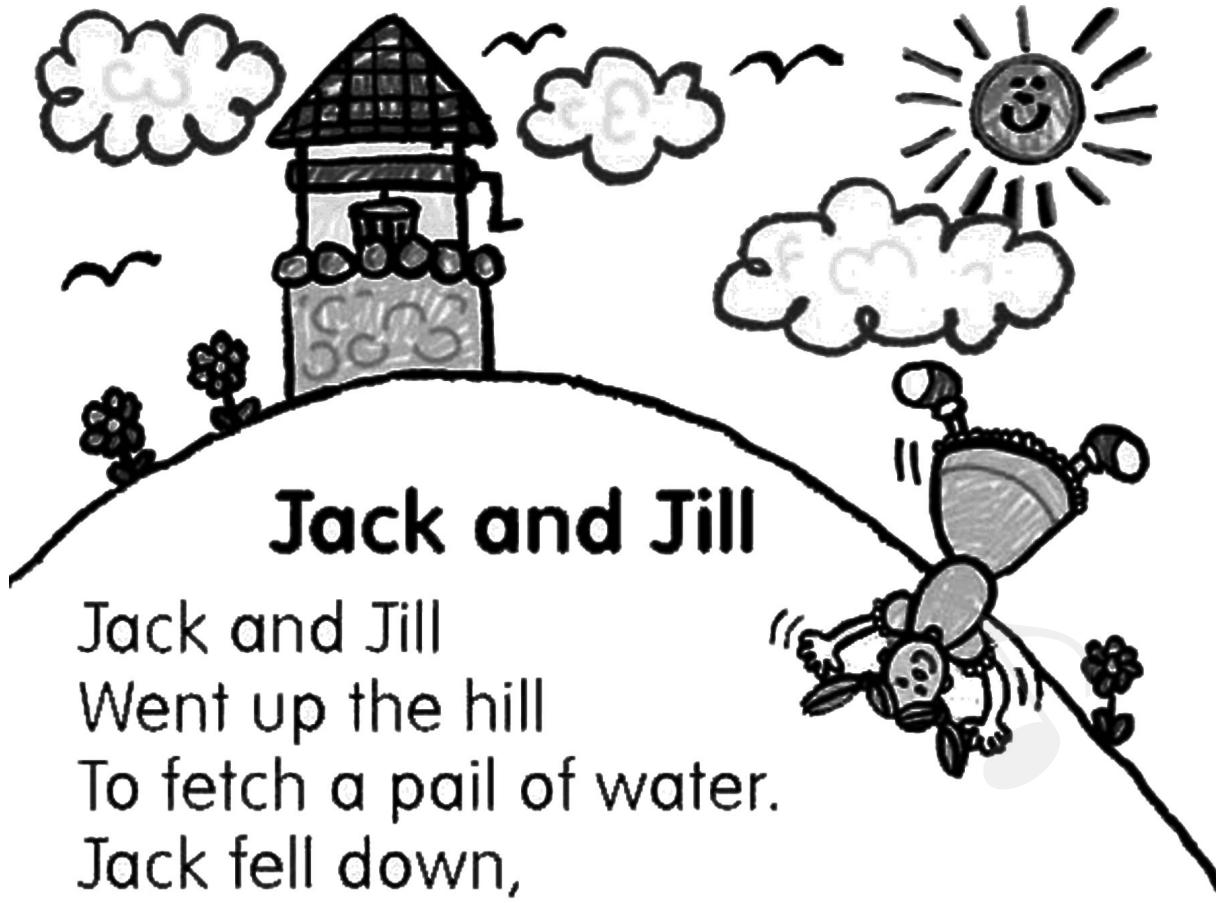

Baa, Baa Black Sheep

Baa, baa, black sheep
Have you any wool?
“Yes sir, yes sir,
Three bags full!”

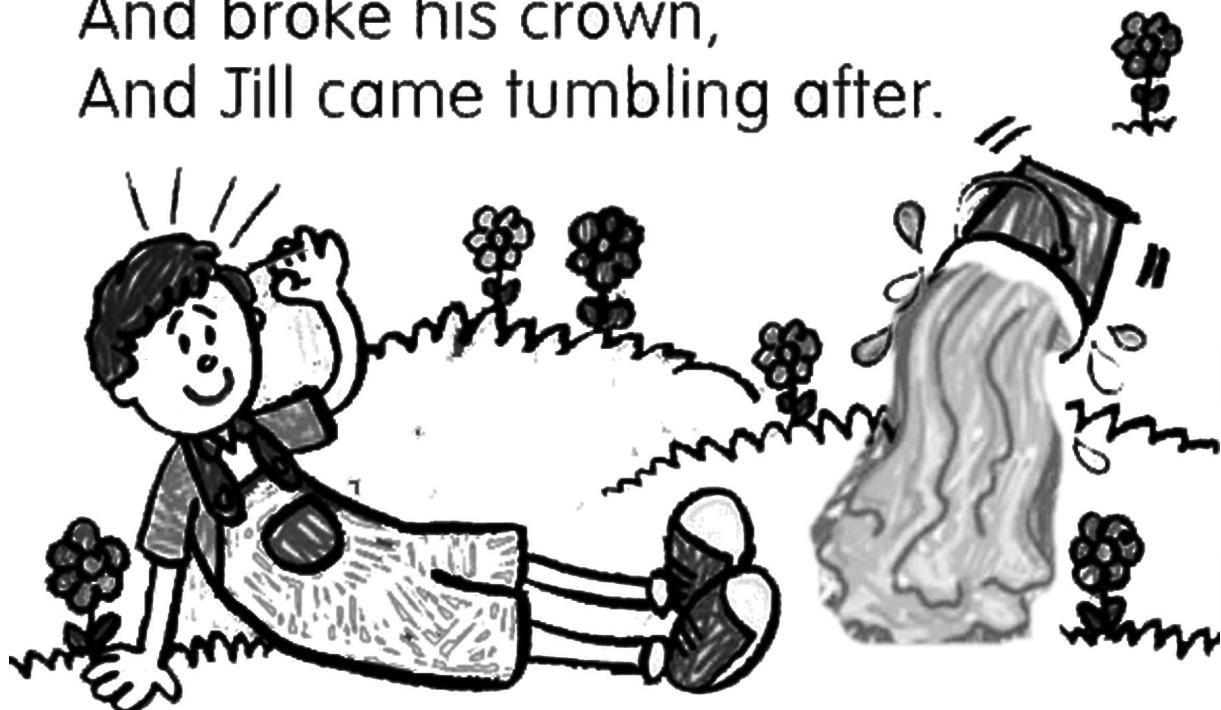

Once for the master,
One for the dame,
And one for the little boy
Who lives down the lane.

Jack and Jill

Jack and Jill
Went up the hill
To fetch a pail of water.
Jack fell down,
And broke his crown,
And Jill came tumbling after.

Little Boy Blue

Little Boy Blue,
Come blow your horn.
The sheep's in the meadow,
The cow's in the corn.

Where is that boy?
Who looks after the sheep?
Under the haystack.
Fast asleep.

Will you wake him?
Oh no, not I,
For if I do
He will surely cry.

The Queen of Hearts

The Queen of Hearts,
She made some tarts,
All on a summer's day.

The Knave of Hearts,
He stole the tarts
And took them clean away.

The King of Hearts
Called for the tarts,
And beat the Knave full score.

The Knave of Hearts
Brought back the tarts
And vowed he'd steal no more.

Little dreamy babies

Go to sleep my baby
Close your pretty eyes
Angels up above you.

Peering at your dreamy From the skies
Great big moon a shining star begins to peep.

Time for the little dreamy
Babies to go to sleep
Little dreamy babies;
Go to sleep.

My body parts

Head Shoulders Knees and toes
.... Knees and toes Knees and toes
Head Shoulders Knees and toes
Eyes ears nose and mouth
Pa-la-la-la lah lah lah oh
Lah lah lah oh Lah lah lah oh
Pa-la-la-la lah lah lah oh
Eyes ears nose and mouth

The Itsy Bitsy Spider

The itsy bitsy spider
went up the water spout
Down came the rain
and washed the spider out.
Out came the sunshine
and dried up all the rain
and the itsy bitsy spider went up the water spout again.

Three Little Kittens

Three little kittens they lost their mittens
And they began to cry...
Oh mother dear, we sadly fear
Our mittens we have lost,
Lost your mittens you naughty kittens,
Then you shall have no pie
Meow meow... you shall have no pie...

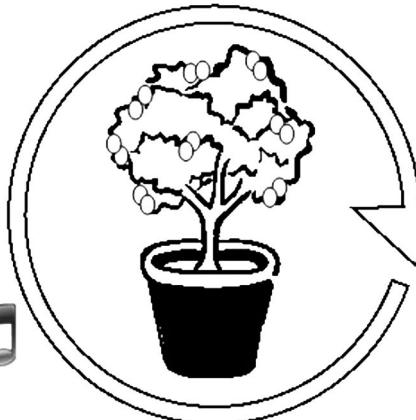

Star light star light

Star light... star light ...
First star I see to night
I wish I may... I wish I might...
Have this wish... I wish to night

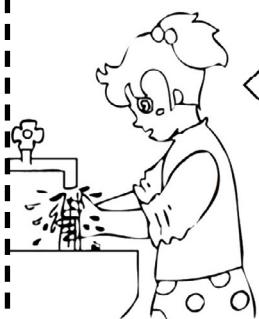

Here we go...

Monkey and Crocodile

A long time ago, there was a monkey who lived in a rose-apple tree by the side of a river. He lived alone, but was very happy.

One day, a crocodile came out of the river. He swam up to the tree and told the monkey that he had travelled a long distance and was in search of food as he was very hungry. The kind monkey offered him a few rose apples. The crocodile thanked him and asked him if he could visit the monkey again.

“You are always welcome,” said the monkey.

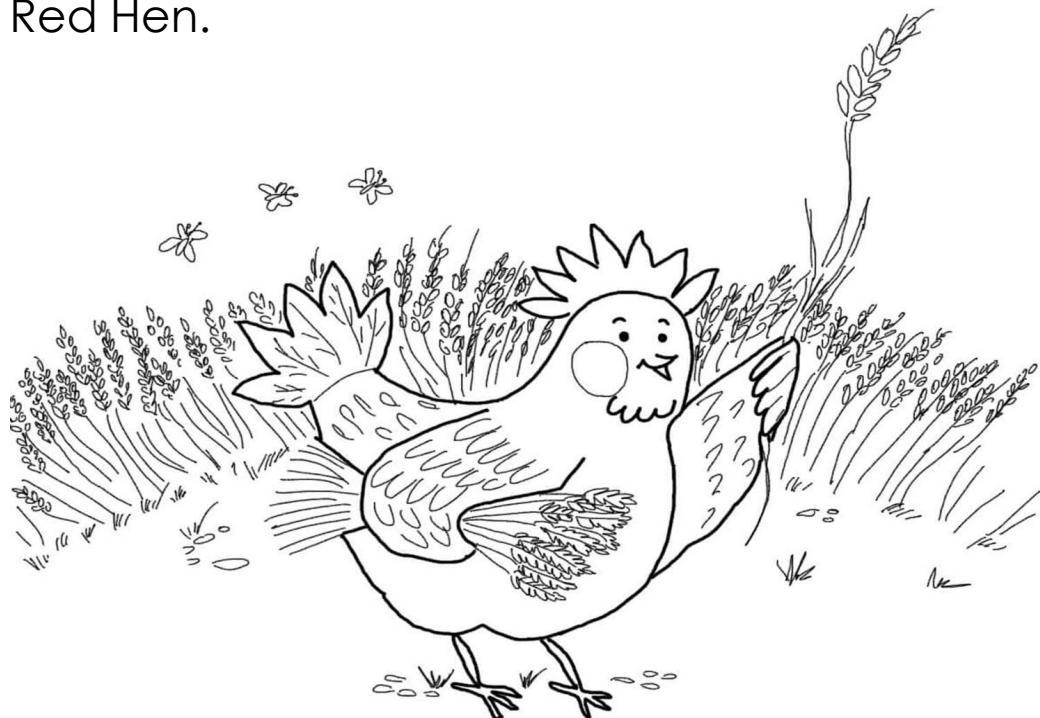

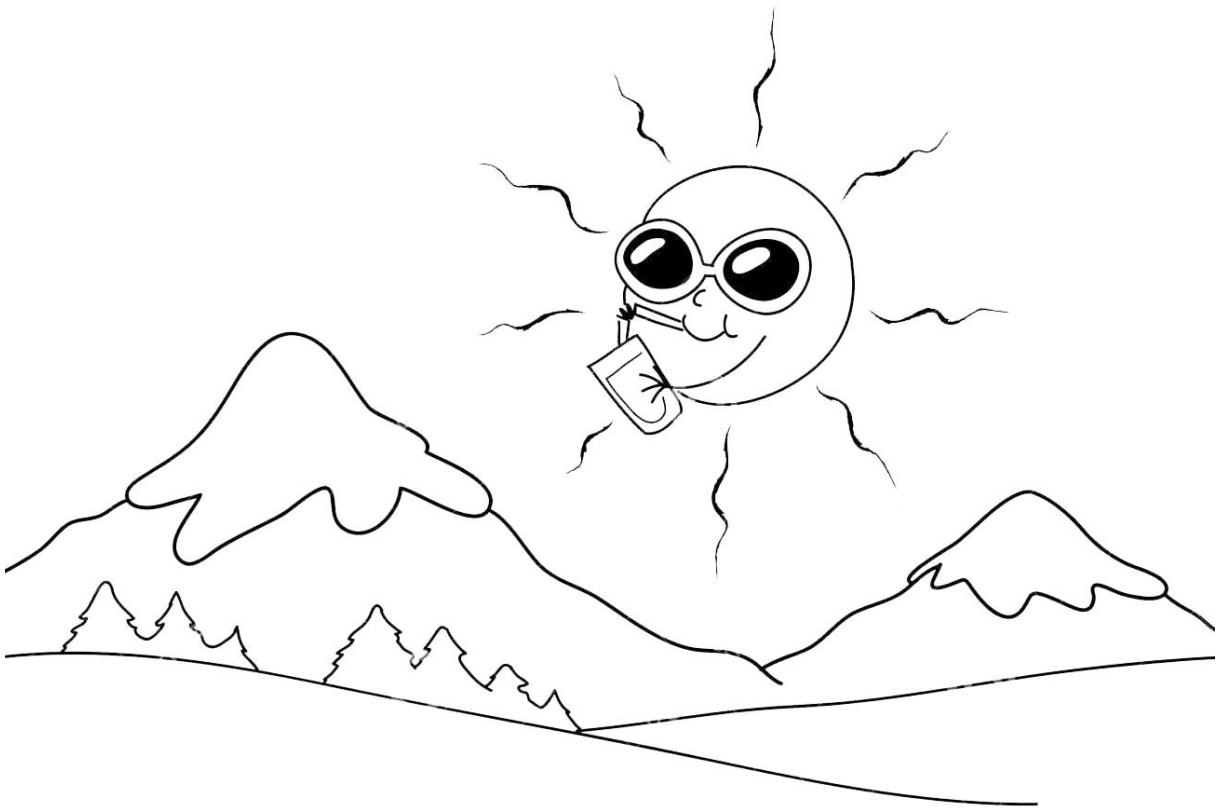

Little Red Hen

The little red hen found a grain of wheat. "Who will plant this?" she asked. "Not I," said the cat. "Not I," said the goose. "Not I," said the rat. "Then I will," said Little Red Hen.

So she buried the wheat in the ground. After a while it grew up yellow and ripe. "The wheat is ripe now," said Little Red Hen. "Who will cut and thresh it?" "Not I," said the cat. "Not I," said the goose. "Not I," said the rat. "Then I will," said Little Red Hen.

So she cut it with her bill and threshed it with her wings. Then she asked, "Who will take this wheat to the mill?" "Not I," said the cat. "Not I," said the goose. "Not I," said the rat. "Then I will," said Little Red Hen.

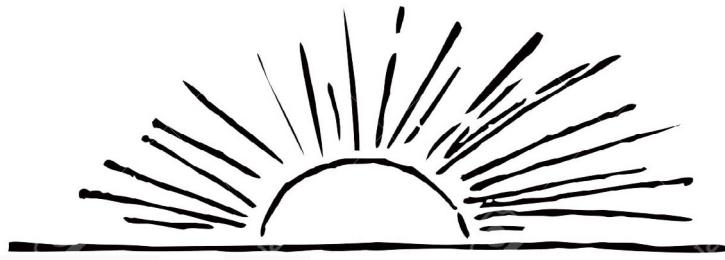

On The Way To The Sun

He had journeyed a long way, and was very tired. It seemed like a dream when he stood up after a sleep in the field, and looked over the wall, and saw the garden, and the flowers, and the children playing all about. He looked at the long road behind him, at the dark wood and the barren hills; it was the world to which he belonged. He looked at the garden before him, at the big house, and the terrace, and the steps that led down to the smooth lawn—it was the world which belonged to the children.

"Poor boy," said the elder child, "I will get you something to eat." "But where did he come from?" the gardener asked. "We do not know," the child answered; "but he is very hungry, and mother says we may give him some food." "I will take him some milk," said the little one; in one hand she carried a mug and with the other she pulled along her little broken cart.

"But what is he called?" asked the gardener. "We do not know," the little one answered; "but he is very thirsty, and mother says we may give him some milk." "Where is he going?" asked the gardener. "We do not know," the children said; "but he is very tired."

When the boy had rested well, he got up saying, "I must not stay any longer," and turned to go on his way. "What have you to do?" the children asked. "I am one of the crew, and must help to make the world go round," he answered. "Why do we not help too?" "You are the passengers." "How far have you to go?" they asked.

"Oh, a long way!" he answered. "On and on until I can touch." "Will you really touch it?" they said, awestruck. "I dare say I shall tire long before I get there," he answered sadly. "Perhaps without knowing it, though, I shall reach it in my sleep," he added. But they hardly heard the last words, for he was already far off.

"Why did you talk to him?" the gardener said. "He is just a working boy." "And we do nothing! It was very good of him to notice us," they said, humbly.

A Wise Old Owl

There was an old owl that lived in an oak. Everyday he saw incidents happening around him. Yesterday he saw a boy helping an old man to carry a heavy basket. Today he saw a girl shouting at her mother. The more he saw the less he spoke. As he spoke less, he heard more.

He heard people talking and telling stories. He heard a woman saying that an elephant jumped over a fence. He also heard a man saying that he had never made a mistake. The old owl had seen and heard about what happened to people.

Some became better and some became worse. But the old owl had become wiser each and every day.

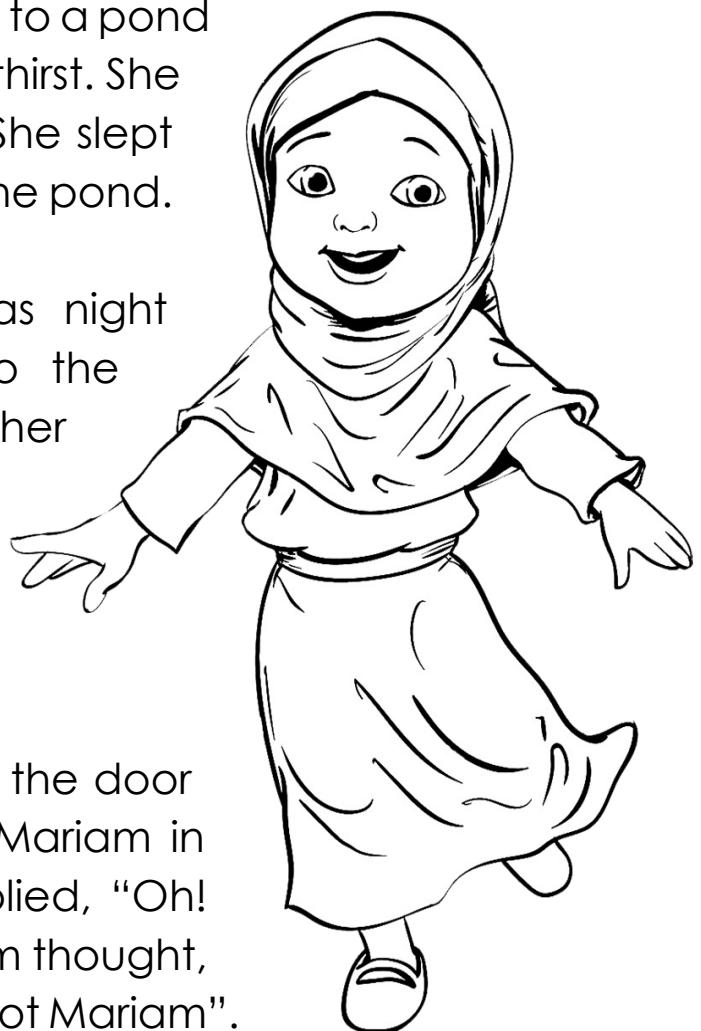

MORAL: You should be observant, talk less but listen more. This will make you a wise person.

Silly Little Mariam.

There lived a little girl Mariam who was very silly and lazy. Often she used to wander hither and thither with no purpose. Once, as she went wandering she felt very thirsty. She went to a pond nearby and quenched her thirst. She felt very tired and drowsy. She slept right there on the banks of the pond.

When she woke up it was night already. She peeped into the pond but could not see her reflection. She got a big doubt, "Am I really here or not? Well! Let me ask at my home".

She went home and found the door closed. She called out "Is Mariam in there?" A sleepy voice replied, "Oh! She must be in bed". Mariam thought, "If Mariam is at home, I am not Mariam". Saying this, she went away.

MORAL: Shadows are not realities.
